

Dr. Hannah Evans (she/her/hers)

Research Associate & National Speaker

Dr. Hannah Evans is a Research Associate and National Speaker at Springtide Research Institute. Previously, she worked with the Hartford Institute for Religion Research, focusing on how religious congregations have been impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Hannah received her bachelor's degree from Taylor University and both of her graduate degrees from Baylor University, giving her a particular interest in the role of higher education in the spirituality of young adults. Her doctoral dissertation focused on how race shapes religious attitudes and practices in early adulthood. Hannah lives in Indianapolis, Indiana, with her husband and daughter, where she enjoys hiking and reading science fiction.
